

Forecast overview — four ways to show the same range

The overview's job (per the design philosophy, §2): show many days at once — balance, total allocated, and free per day, with a sense of money in/out, days worth a closer look flagged, and today unmistakable — without a per-jar breakdown, an every-transaction dump, or a decorative chart. Same data below, four layouts. Pick one, or a hybrid.

THE SCENARIO

$2,400 as of Jun 30

$1,700 paycheck (biweekly)

Rent $1,200/mo

Electric $140/mo

$500 safety cushion

Japan trip $3,000 (behind)

surprise $1,900 car repair, Jul 16

LEGEND

Today

Deallocation — jars raided

Watch — free running thin

Allocated (all jars)

Free to spend

A Evolved table

The current grid, refined — a total “Allocated” column, in/out cues, an attention flag, and a distinct today row.

+ Dense — every day, precise figures

+ Familiar, scannable columns

– Trends read weakly down rows

– Can feel spreadsheet-y

B Calendar / month grid

Days as calendar cells, color-coded by free-balance health, today framed, event dots, attention tints.

- + Spatial rhythm — spot clusters fast
- + “When” is instantly legible
- Empty days spend space
- Amounts are cramped; weak for long ranges

< June July August >
SU	MO	TU	WE	TH	FR	SA
			1 ■ $580 free · $620 set aside	2	3	4 ●●● $1,780 free · $1 set aside
5	6	7	8	9 ● $1,630 free · $1,270 set aside	10	11 · Today $1,580 free · $1 set aside

Amounts are the day's free balance; the smaller line is total set aside. Non-event days sit faint but present. Months paginate; here July, the busy one.

c Horizontal river

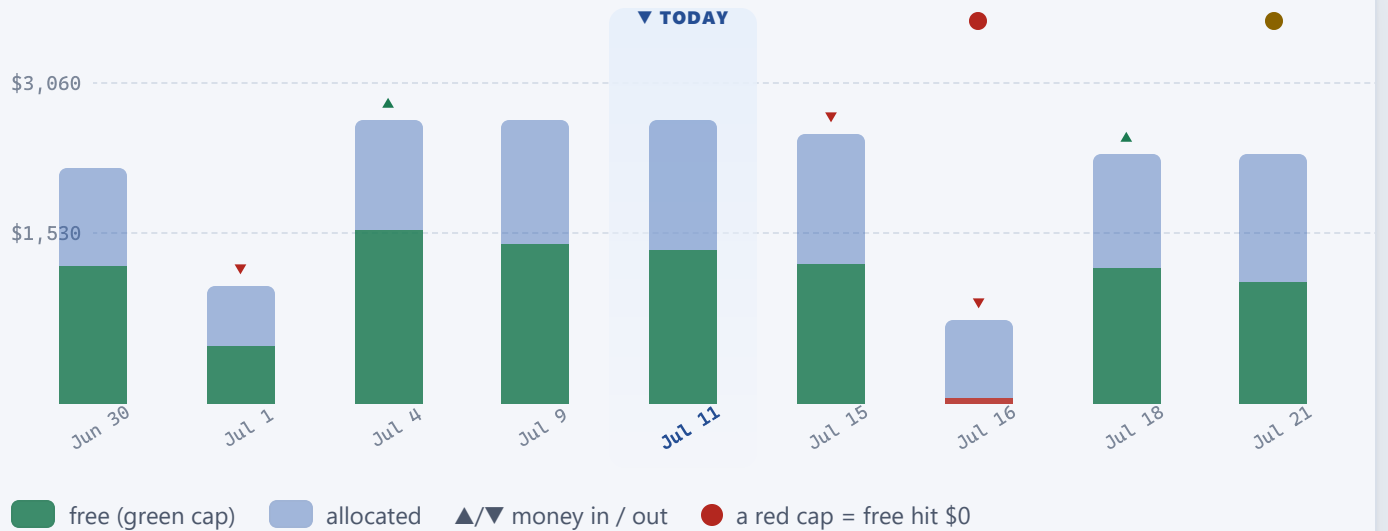

A time strip: each day a bar of allocated (base) + free (cap), with in/out ticks and a today line. Trend-forward.

+ Health & trend jump out

+ Compact across long ranges

– Precise numbers need a tap/hover

– Closest to a “chart” — watch $2

Bar height = balance, split allocated (base) + free (cap). The trend — building, then the Jul 16 raid, then recovery — reads without a line chart.

d Day-card stream

A vertical stream of per-day cards — three figures, event chips, a left attention stripe, today outlined.

+ Roomy, readable, touch-friendly

+ Events breathe

– Fewer days on screen at once

– More scrolling

Mockups only — hand-built with representative data to compare layouts, not a live forecast. Money figures use a monospace ledger face; colors carry meaning (green good · amber watch · red short), separate from the indigo interactive/today accent. Renders in light and dark.
